Objective

Young Entrepreneurs Academy (YEA) was designed to increase the number of youth who can develop their own economic capacities to succeed through personal finance and exploration into the world of entrepreneurship, develop a continuous reservoir of prospective young entrepreneurs, provide scholarships and equip future business leaders.

The Academy is structured to provide participants the theoretical and practical tools necessary to manage and build their personal financial portfolios to be successful in business.

Schedule

Seven (7) four hour sessions are conducted that will take place 9am-1pm the second Saturday of the month beginning December 2017 and end in June 2018. Also seven (7) two-hour business plan study group sessions from 10am to 12pm, unless otherwise stated, dates to be determined.

Design

The sessions will include instruction, self-assessment, individual and group exercises, lectures, homework, field trips and videos.

Materials

Workbooks are distributed at the beginning of the training and trainers disseminate a variety of materials at each session (exercises, reference materials, etc.)

Costs

The program is paid for by generous grants from Wells Fargo Bank, PG&E, SMUD and UC Davis Health System. Some financial responsibility may be required for field trips.
