Objective

Young Leadership Collaborative (YLC) was designed to increase the number of youth who can develop their own economic capacities to succeed through personal finance and exploration into the world of entrepreneurship. We wish to develop a continuous reservoir of prospective young entrepreneurs, provide scholarships and equip future business and community leaders.

The Collaborative is structured to provide participants the theoretical and practical tools necessary to manage and build their personal financial portfolios to be successful in business.

Schedule

Ten (10) two-hour sessions are conducted that will take place 11am-1pm “two” Saturdays per month, beginning January 8, 2022, and ending May 21, 2022. Additional dates may be added for presentation preparation.

Design

The sessions are cohort based and will include instruction, self-assessment, individual and group exercises, lectures, homework, and videos. In addition, cohort members will be paired with a mentor to help guide them through their program and provide valuable advice during their leadership journey.

Materials

Facilitators will provide any reference and/or exercise materials needed for their respective class.

Costs

The program is paid for by generous grants from Wells Fargo Bank, PG&E, SMUD, UC Davis Health System, and others.
